

University of Wisconsin-Madison Postdoctoral Fellowship Health Disparities Research Accepting Applications for Spring 2021

HEALTH DISPARITIES RESEARCH SCHOLARS (HDRS) PROGRAM

The HDRS Postdoctoral Fellowship Program funded since 2007 by the Eunice Kennedy Shriver National Institute of Child Health & Human Development and supported by the Department of Obstetrics and Gynecology in the School of Medicine and Public Health provides training and mentoring at the postdoctoral level in interdisciplinary research that addresses disparities in health status and health outcomes among minority populations with an emphasis on maternal/child, adolescent and family health.

Stipends and Benefits: Stipend levels depend on years of related experience and are set by the National Institutes of Health. Fellows have access to the full range of resources offered by the University of Wisconsin-Madison. Each Fellow is provided with shared office space plus library privileges, health insurance, travel to conferences, support for research training and professional development.

Diversity of experience, ability/disability, religion, race, ethnicity, gender, and sexual orientation contribute to the richness of the training and professional experience for scholars and faculty participating in the Health Disparities Research Scholars Program.

Applications accepted until position filled.

Eligibility Requirements and Application Procedures

Deborah Ehrental, MD, MPH, Program Director, ehrental@wisc.edu

Lisa Scott, PhD, Program Administrator, lescott3@wisc.edu

School of Medicine and Public Health
UNIVERSITY OF WISCONSIN-MADISON